STOKES MUST GIVE HOUSE TO WIFE, COURT SAYS

Order Follows Defeat of His Effort to Have Marriage Annulled.

Justice Marean, of the Supreme Court of Brooklyn, to-day granted the petition of Mrs. Elizabeth W. Hitchings Stokes w force her husband, Col. William A. Stokes, of the Twenty-third Regiment, to execute a new deed conveying to her his only property, the handsome house at No. 606 St. Mark's avenue and its contents, valued at $28,000.

This decision in favor of Mrs. Stokes hollows an action lost by Col. Stokes to have his marriage to Mrs. Hitchings annulled on the ground that her first hus-band, John Hitchings, is living and has never been divorced from her.

The testimony of witnesses showed that Col. Stokes had indicated his intention of deeding the property to his wife in the New York law office of James P. Niemann, March 6, 1906. Col Stokes declared that he had made out such a deed, but that Mrs. Stokes never had possession of it. She maintained that after delivery she had returned the paper to Col. Stokes to have it properly recorded and that he had never returned it. Justice Marean found for the plaintiff.

Meantime Col. and Mrs. Stokes are living under the same roof at the Stokes residence. The decision against annulment of marriage was given to Mrs Stokes on the ground that Col. Stokes by his own admission lived with Mrs. Hitchings as her baband for two years after he had learned that her first hus-

Edward Dallas Plunges Into a Crowd Under the Williamsburg Structure.

The tragedy spread hysteria through the crowd and started a panic in which carts were pushed over and women and children were trampled.

Dallas was working on what is known as a "crippled scaffolding," and engaged in making alterations for the proposed subway loop. He was shift-ing the scaffolding, and one of the beams protruded through the flooring of the track. Some distance away a ed flag had been hung to warn the notormen to stop.

Motorman William Lang came along with a Hamburg avenue car bound for Manhattan. According to the police, he ignored the flag. The car hit the protruding beam and the scaffolding on which Dallas was sitting gwung up in a half circle, tossing the ironworker in the
